

FAIR PLAY, STE. GENEVIEVE, MISSOURI.

Hold Your Liberty Bonds.

One who subscribes for a Liberty Bond and gets credit as a patriot for doing so is not acting patriotically if he immediately sells that bond, that is, unless he imperatively needs the money, says Secretary McAdoo. It is not the mere subscription that helps the Government, it is the actual loan; shifting the bond to some one else does not help.

The same objection lies to exchanging Liberty Loan Bonds in trade. Merchants offering to take Liberty Loan Bonds in exchange for merchandise are doubtlessly actuated by patriotic motives, but such transactions tend to defeat a primary object of the bond sale, the encouraging of thrift and the discouraging of expenditures. Bonds so exchanged are in most cases immediately sold on the open market which tend to depress the market price and affects adversely the sales of future issues.

Secretary McAdoo expressly states that there is no desire on the part of the Government to prevent or interfere with legitimate trading, in good faith, in Liberty Bonds.

It is one of the great objects of the Treasury Department to have these bonds held as permanent investments by the people and paid for out of savings, thus at once providing funds for the Government and conserving labor and material.

There are the soundest reasons for holding Liberty Bonds. Their quotations under par on the stock exchange means a loss only to those who sell. The financial history of the United States shows that in times of peace all of its bonds have gone above par, some as high as 139. The tremendous growth of our resources and of our trade, our domestic trade alone having increased from $30,000,000,000 to $64,000,000,000 in the last four years, warrants the belief that our Government bonds are the soundest investments in the world and with the restoration of peace conditions will command a handsome premium in the market.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a Favorite for Colds.

J. L. Easley, Macon, Ill., in speaking of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy says, "During the past fifteen years it has been my sister's favorite medicine for colds on the lungs. I myself have taken it a number of times when suffering with a cold and it always relieved me promptly." adv

Card of Thanks.

We wish to extend our heart felt thanks to those who so willingly assisted us at the death of our dear mother and grandmother.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Straughan and family.

Things Worth Remembering.

In starting to raise chickens use a good strain of whichever breed is decided on.

The slipper and wrapper habit is the housewife's greatest temptation.

Mashed potato has many decorative possibilities for garnishing steaks, roasts, and chops.

Instead of sugar, try sweetening cakes and cookies with honey.

Dried orange peel allowed to smolder on an old shovel will kill any bad odor in a room.

Poultry can be increased more rapidly and more economically than any of the meat animals.

As a memorial to the late Harry Naeter the name of the Cape Girardeau Republican has been changed to the Cape Girardeau Southeast Missourian. Naeter desired to get away from the handicap of a partisan paper. "In the future," says an editorial appearing on its front page, "the paper will not deal in partisan politics. The Republican gives up its old name, which denoted political affiliation, partisan acrimony, and prejudice, to take up a new name and a new life with a view of being in a better position to do better work for the people of Cape Girardeau and Southeast Missouri." The Naeter brothers, George and Fred, will continue its publication. Ex.

As the Government has set April 6th for the next Liberty Loan Drive, a call went out to the women of the state to come to a St. Louis meeting for information and instruction as to how the women could best help the Government sell these bonds. Seventy-eight counties were represented. As a few counties belong in the Tenth District and will meet in Kansas City, and as the whole state only has 114 counties, we feel like saying "Three Cheers," for the women of Missouri. They are certainly behind the Government.

Julius Doerner is dead and the police are guarding the greatest collection of books in Chicago—a collection that Doerner himself said was worth $1,000,000. Doerner once boasted that he lived on seven cents a day. He lived as a recluse, putting about among his priceless books in his dingy basement shop in a poverty-stricken neighborhood. He had lived there 25 years and death found him with his face buried in an open book. Some of the books were brought here from royal libraries of Europe. Valuable curios, also were in his collection. One volume of Thackeray with the author's original sketches, once attracted an offer of $2,500, but Doerner laughed and refused it. Mrs. Potter Palmer is said to have offered $2,000 for an Italian cameo. Doerner, in his youth, was a civil engineer, but the death of his wife and child drove him to seek solace among his books. WHY THRIFT STAMPS ARE NOT REDEEMABLE IN CASH

Festus J. Wade, director War Savings Committee for Missouri, has frequently been asked since the opening of the thrift campaign, why the Thrift Stamps were not redeemable in cash and why they did not bear interest. "The Thrift Stamps are not made redeemable in cash," said Mr. Wade, "and are not interest-bearing for the reason that the Thrift Stamps are simply intended as a convenient method for the small wage earner and person of limited means to accumulate enough to purchase War Savings Stamps, which bear interest and are redeemable in cash."

The housewife, boy or girl or anyone else may buy a 25-cent Thrift Stamp each week until his Thrift Card is full, and then with 12 cents additional purchase a War Savings Stamp, which is redeemable in cash and bears interest at the rate of 4 per cent if held until maturity, January, 1923, or through necessity the holder finds that he must convert it into cash before maturity it bears interest at the rate of 3 per cent per annum.

In addition, to provide for the redemption of these Thrift Stamps would involve such an amount of detail as counting, labor and expense as to impair the practicality of their use.

A Missourian is always in demand. When a man was needed to devise a selective draft system the favor was given to Enos H. Crowder, a Missourian. When an overseas general was needed the Missourian, "Black Jack" Pershing, filled the bill. When the way came for motive force, Missouri furnished the mules. And now comes a venturist, a lieutenant who had never occupied an airplane who went on a bombing expedition last Tuesday night and downed a Berlin plane. The man who originated the saying "Show Me," doubtless little realized its significance.—Trenton Tribune
